500 HOURS APPEARS TO BE GOAL OF FLIERS

MOTOR REFUSES TO WEAR OUT IN GRUELLING TEST

JACKSON AND O'BRIEN APPEAR MADE OF SAME STERN STUFF

ALREADY $10,000 WEALTHIER IN EXTRA FLYING PAY

St. Louis, Mo., July 26.—(UP)—A motor that refused to wear out and two men determined to outlast it held the St. Louis-Robin in the air here today after 311 hours of consecutive flying.

"All Okay," was the word from Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, pilots, at 6:17 A. M. as they rounded out 61 hours, 16 minutes and 28 seconds more than the record they shattered Tuesday.

Approximately $10,000 wealthier in extra flying pay, the team flew on and on to a steadily mounting fortune with fame, already eclipsing anything in aviation history.

Both are "feeling fine and getting fat," they assured ground watchers. "The old motor hasn't changed a bit, that I can see," Jackson added.

Five hundred hours appeared to be their goal, and they had the assurance of Arthur Nutt, designer of their Challenger motor, that from the sound of their power unit that was not unattainable.

Weather as usual continued so calm that no one gave it much thought. It was slightly hazy over the field early today, but the Robin soared lazily at 3,500 feet.

In a message dropped from an altitude of 75 feet early today Jackson reported "everything still going good," saying:

"Good morning, everybody. We want 60 gallons of gas and oil. Everything still going good. Send up four new spark plugs. Regards, Red."

Stamina of the two men has begun to cause as much comment as the rugged reliability of their motor. They eat only two meals a day, prepared for them by their wives, and drink milk instead of coffee, probably accounting for their word "getting fat." Statistics have figured that the St. Louis-Robin thus far has flown the equivalent of around the world via a 17,000-mile course from New York west to San Francisco, Honolulu, Tokyo, Constantinople, Madrid and New York.

Flight of the Robin thus far has more than doubled that of the Army plane, Question Mark, which early this year started aviation circles by remaining aloft 150 hours.

The fliers are 103 hours ahead of the monoplane Billion Dollar City of Houston, and 236 hours ahead of the monoplane Minnesota, with which they have joined in rivalry for endurance honors.

When the flight reached 318 hours at 1:17 P. M. a fair crowd was on hand to witness the plane and to greet Dale Jackson's parents on their arrival by air from Fairbault, Minn.

Fairbault, Minn., July 26.—"Pa" and "Ma" Jackson, proud parents of Dale Jackson, co-holder of the all-time endurance flight record, today turned over their chickens, cows and pigs to the "hired hands" and started out for St. Louis and glory.

Henry and Mrs. Jackson, whose son only a short time ago piloted a careening grocery truck over the streets of Fairbault, started from their little farm virtually to "walk the clouds" to the Missouri city as "Daredevil" Red rode them to fame and wealth.

When the message came from their young daughter-in-law that Dale wanted them near him at St. Louis, "Pa" said:

"Shucks, we are dying to go, but who would water the hogs, milk the cows and feed the hens?"

Thirteen jubilant citizens shouted back:

"Here are two hired men to take care of the farm and here is an airplane for you to ride in. Go down and see the boy and give him our heartiest congratulations."

"Pa" and "Ma" were overwhelmed and speechless, but only for a moment. They held a brief conference and decided to accept.

Minneapolis, July 26.—Favored by nearly perfect weather in their endurance flight record attempt, Owen Haugland and Capt. P. L. Crichton cruised over Wold-Chamberlain field in the Minnesota today on their fourth day of continuous flying.

The Minnesota announced that later in the day they will leave the Minneapolis area for a long cruise over the neighboring towns and perhaps into Wisconsin.

At 3 P. M. Haugland and Crichton had been aloft more than 92 hours.

Houston, Texas, July 26.—"We can stay up here indefinitely if given good weather." That was a message dropped by C. L. Loomis and Joe Glass, pilots of the Billion Dollar City, which passed its 212th hour in the air at 9:49:54 A. M. today.

AUTO-GIRO RISES WITHIN 15 YARDS

Southampton, Eng., July 26.—(UP)—Trial flight of improvised auto-giro by Juan De La Cierva, Spanish inventor, at Hamble, near here today revealed that the new machine can rise from the ground within 15 yards of its starting place instead of the 100 yards formerly required.

CANDIDATE FOR WHEAT POST ON FARM BOARD

AGRICULTURAL LEADERS MEETING TODAY TO MAKE SUGGESTIONS

FULL MEMBERSHIP OF BOARD EXCEPT SECRETARY HYDE TO CONFER

Chicago, July 26.—(UP)—A candidate for the "wheat" member's post on the new federal farm board is expected to be selected today by agricultural leaders meeting with the board here.

State farmer elevator associations of the corn and wheat belts are meeting with the board, ostensibly to discuss the surplus grain problem.

Combinations of small farmers' co-operative organizations to eliminate duplication of terminal and warehouse facilities also will be considered.

The full membership of the board, with the exception of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, is expected to be present when the "round-table" gets under way.

Nearly every state in the midwest is scheduled to have representatives at the meeting and the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers' Union and other farm organizations will be represented.

The session will be closed and it is understood that no announcement will be given to the press as to what took place. Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board will preside.

UNUSUAL HEAT AND HUMIDITY

OPPRESSES CALIFORNIA, RESULTS IN DEATH OF 17 PEOPLE

El Centro, Cal., July 26.—(UP)—Unprecedented heat and humidity which has oppressed this section of California for many days has resulted in the deaths of 17 persons, according to figures compiled here today.

The death list includes five infants, a number of aged persons, and eight members of the ill-fated Enrique Argentas party which was stranded on the desert near the bleak Beale wells.

Towns reporting deaths from the torrid conditions are El Centro, Brawley, Calexico, Holtville, Westmoreland and Heber.

The average temperature for 24 hours during most days recently has been around 95 degrees, with the humidity averaging about 45 degrees.

OAK TREE RESEMBLING LINCOLN, NOW TO BE MADE LEE PROFILE

Albany, Ga., July 26.—(UP)—An Albany oak tree greatly resembles the profile of Abraham Lincoln, but Miss Hattie Hardy, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, wants someone to tell her how to grow whiskers on it to make it look like Robert E. Lee, in order to carry out the suggestion of a St. Louis man.

HOLMAN LANDS WORLD'S FASTEST COMMERCIAL PLANE

St. Paul, July 26.—(UP)—Charles (Speed) Holman, operating manager of the Northwest Airways, landed here today in what was termed the world's fastest commercial airplane. The ship, capable of 162 miles an hour, will be put on the night air mail run August 1, between Chicago and the Twin Cities.

BOY CHARGED BY POLICE WITH HAVING 'PINT' ON HIS HIP

Minneapolis, July 26.—(UP)—An 11-year-old boy whom police charged was caught with a "pint on his hip" today gave testimony in municipal court which sent Margaret Laszy to the work-house for 90 days. The woman pleaded guilty to possession of liquor after the boy had been arrested by the purity squad. It was alleged he was delivering the liquor to her.

Senate Finance Committee Re-opens Hearing on Sugar Schedule and New Sliding Scale

SMOOT WILL HAVE SCALE PREPARED SOON

ROW IN INNER REPUBLICAN TARIFF CIRCLE OVER OTHER HIGH RATES

MAY PREVENT MEASURE FROM BEING READY WHEN SENATE MEETS AGAIN AUG. 19

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—The senate finance committee will re-open hearings on the sugar schedule to obtain opinions from interested parties about the proposed Smoot sliding scale, Chairman Smoot of the committee, announced today.

Smoot said he would have his scale completed Monday and hearings would be re-opened as soon as the sugar provision of the bill is reached, probably next week.

Washington, July 26.—The row in the inner republican tariff circle over how high rates should go in the bill now pending in the senate finance committee probably will prevent the measure from being ready when the senate reconvenes August 19, and may delay final action on it until the regular session of congress next December, it was learned today.

The present delay, caused by differences between republican members of the committee over the policy to be pursued, has assumed increased importance because of the long fight threatened in the senate and the prospect because of a similarly lengthy dispute between the two houses after the senate acts. It may eventually prevent the new rates from becoming effective before next summer.

The eleven republican committee members who have been working were agreed generally today it will be impossible to have the bill ready for submission to the senate at the appointed time. Chairman Smoot said the senate could consider other matters the first week or so after its return and the committee probably would pursue its work after the senate reconvenes in order to finish as soon as possible.

TIMBER CAVEIN AT EAST PORTAL OF MOFFAT TUNNEL

Denver, Colo., July 26.—(UP)—All train service through the Moffat tunnel under the continental divide was stopped today by cave-in of timbers near the east portal, the Moffat tunnel commission announced. It probably will be from 36 to 48 hours before the track is cleared.

Minneapolis, July 26.—(UP)—Minneapolis ice dealers today began a price slashing war much to the satisfaction of the consumers who sweltered in 90 degrees temperatures. One firm announced it would cut prices in two and sell ice at $6 a ton.

17 CASUALTIES ON BRITISH SHIP IN FIRING PRACTICE

London, July 26.—(UP)—Seventeen casualties resulted aboard H. M. S. Devonshire during firing practice in the Eastern Mediterranean today when an accident occurred to one of the guns, the admiral announced. The casualties included six seriously injured. The admiral did not say how many were dead.

London, July 26.—(UP)—Twelve men were killed and 13 injured, three of them seriously, in an explosion aboard the 10,000 ton British cruiser, Devonshire in the Mediterranean today, it was officially announced by the admiral.

The dead comprised one captain, one sergeant, two corporals and eight marines, all belonging to the Royal Marines, the official announcement said.

The seriously injured were a corporal and two marines. The other injured were one corporal and seven marines, all of the Royal Marines, and two able seamen of the Royal navy.

VICTOR L. BERGER NEARING CRISIS

WAS SERIOUSLY WOUNDED TEN DAYS AGO IN STREET CAR ACCIDENT

Milwaukee, July 26.—(UP)—Victor L. Berger, former congressman and world socialist leader, seriously injured when struck by a street car ten days ago, is nearing the crisis.

Today, his physicians believed, would tell whether he was fighting a winning or losing battle against death. Mr. Berger's condition still is "very critical," his doctors reported.

Grave fears were felt for him last night after he had suffered a relapse.

CLOUDBURST IN DELUGE OF COUNTRY WEST OF MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26.—(UP)—A cloudburst deluged the countryside west of Milwaukee today, flooding interurban lines and highways. One electric line here reported that so much track was washed away on the line from Watertown that passengers had to be transferred to busses.

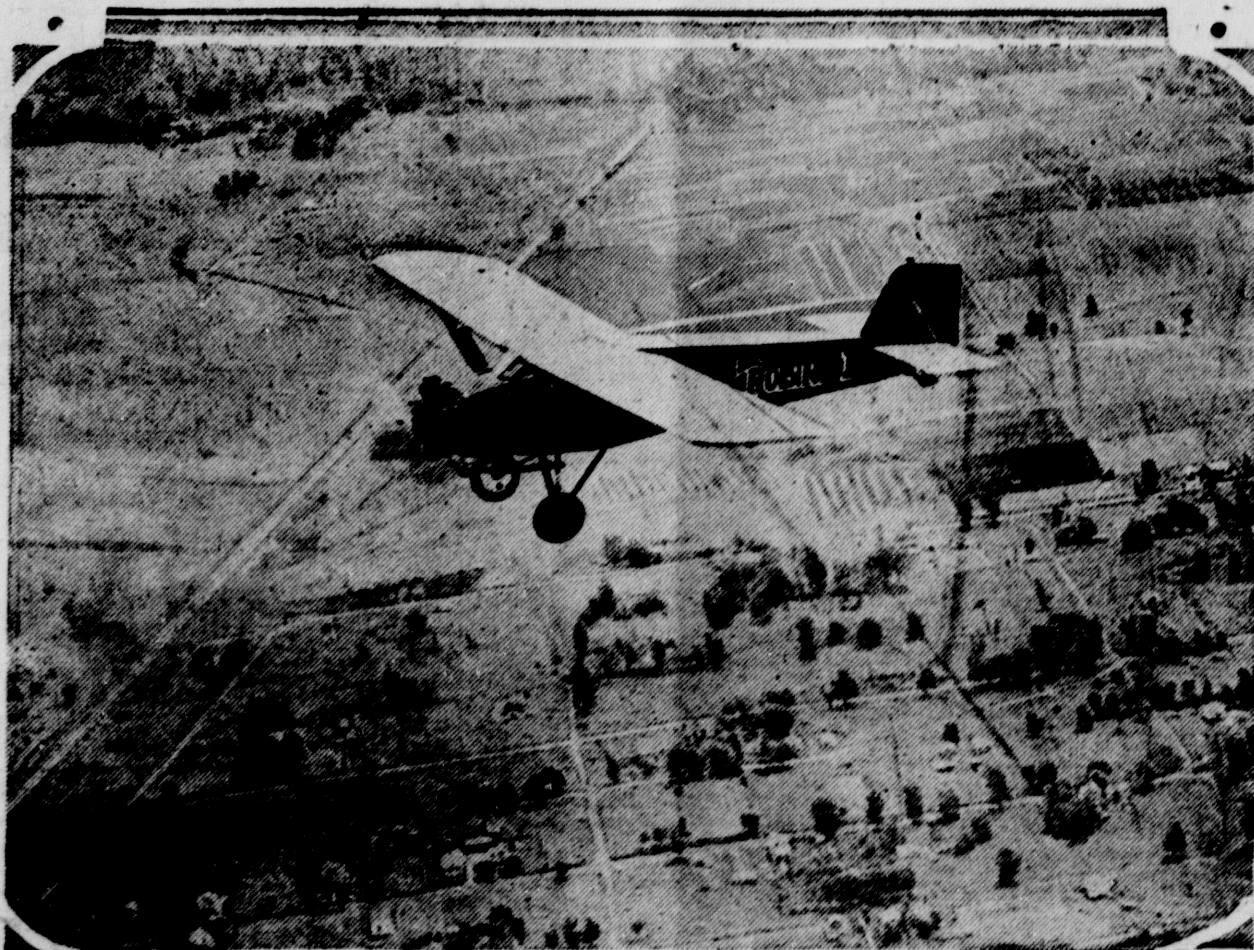

A number of repair crews were rushed to the flooded area.

No estimate of the damage was available.

GUARD HORSE RACING TRACKS AGAINST BOMBING

INCENDIARISM AND OTHER VANDALISM HAS BEEN THREATENED

HOODLUMS ANGERED OVER THE CLOSING OF DOG RACING PLANTS

Chicago, July 26.—(UP)—All of the Cook county's big horse racing tracks were guarded today against possible bombings, incendiarism or other vandalism.

Threats of reprisal against the horse racing operators had come from hoodlums angered over the closing of the dog racing plants, the state's attorney's office announced.

Shut-down of the Hawthorne dog track was regarded as a bitter blow to the vice-interests.

"I netted Al Capone $500,000 a year," said Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney.

A score of men, all armed, watched over the stables at Arlington. Under particularly heavy guard was the stable of Reigh Count, Mrs. John D. Hertz's horse, challenger for the Ascot cup.

Special guards were on duty also at Lincoln Fields, Washington Park and Hawthorne (horse) tracks.

Horse racing is permitted in Illinois but racing of "other animals" is banned by statute.

GIRL IS STILL IN A CRITICAL CONDITION

SHOT BY MINNEAPOLIS EMPLOYEE, WHO MISTOOK HER FOR BURGLAR

Minneapolis, Minn., July 26.—(UP)—Madelyn Lindseth, 18-year-old Madison, Minn., girl who was shot and seriously wounded here early Thursday when her employer mistook her for a burglar, still was in a critical condition today despite a blood transfusion administered in the hope of saving her life.

The daughter of Henry Lindseth, Madison farmer, was shot in the back by Leroy Cady, in whose home Madelyn worked evenings while she attended business college days. Cady, who said the pistol shot was fired at the figure he believed was a prowler, will appear before the grand jury on Tuesday. Meanwhile he was at liberty.

While physicians performed the blood transfusion on Miss Lindseth who at first was mistakenly reported from Madison, Wis., her parents were summoned from their home and reached the hospital almost in a state of collapse.

HARD TO IDENTIFY LIQUOR CARGO BOATS

Washington, July 26.—(UP)—The majority of vessels reported as clearing for the United States from Canada with liquor cargoes cannot be identified although only a strong soaking rain could put the fires out entirely.

Three additional but smaller fires were reported from the region north of Ely but they were quickly curbed and only a few men were left to check any possible outbreak.

GRAF ZEPPELIN TO START WORLD TOUR EARLY IN AUGUST

Akron, O., July 26.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, famed German dirigible, will start its around-the-world trip from Friedrichshafen some time during the first ten days of August, according to word received today from Germany by Dr. Karl Arnstein, vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation.

Lakehurst will be the first stop. From there the ship will point its nose back to Friedrichshafen, to Tokio, Los Angeles and back to Lakehurst.

The trip will end the latter part of August and will be the most decisive test an airship has ever been subjected to, Dr. Eckner announced.

PACT BETWEEN U. S. AND BRITAIN ON CRUISERS

PRESIDENT HOOVER AND PREMIER MAC DONALD MAY SOON REACH AGREEMENT

ONE GREAT OBSTACLE REMOVED BY ACCORD IN PARITY OF ALL FIGHTING SHIPS

By HERBERT LITTLE (United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, July 26.—The next step toward naval reduction may be an Anglo-American agreement equalizing cruiser strength, or combined cruiser-and-destroyer strength, of Great Britain and the United States by application of the so-called "Hoover yardstick," informed officials revealed today.

President Hoover and Premier MacDonald may reach such an agreement across a student here in October, now that one great obstacle has been removed by the accord reached in London on the principle of parity in all categories of fighting ships. Secretary of State Stimson characterized this agreement as "immensely important."

The first step in putting this agreement into practice is to apply the parity principle to cruisers, the main controversial point between the two nations, officials said. Whether the Hoover-MacDonald conversations will complete this step can only be conjectured, but friends of naval reduction have been cheered by the speedy work of Ambassador Dawes and MacDonald thus far.

President Hoover's plan for a "yardstick" or formula to equalize British and American naval strength, making allowances for the greater number of small cruisers desired by Britain as against the United States' larger ships, was believed partly instrumental in clearing the way for the parity agreement.

Now if a formula satisfactory to both nations can be drafted by October, when Premier MacDonald is coming to discuss naval reduction with Mr. Hoover, the way would be clear for an agreement, officials believe.

It would take only a few weeks to put such an agreement in treaty form and have it signed, once the two government leaders had endorsed it. Then it would have to be submitted to the British parliament and the American senate for ratification.

Secretary of State Stimson has disclosed that other naval powers have been advised of the London conversations between MacDonald and Ambassador Dawes which led up to the parity agreement, but the other nations were not affected by the questions taken up in the conversations, he said.

375 MEN FIGHTING FOREST FIRE AT GRAND MARAIS

Grand Marais, Minn., July 26.—(UP)—Wind, which has played such an important part in a monster forest fire sweeping through the Superior national forest timber lands near here, took a more favorable turn today after the blaze had burst forth anew Thursday.

The army of 375 men who have fought the great fire since it was started late Monday, apparently by sparks from a logging engine, saw their efforts nullified late yesterday when a strong wind fanned the fire beyond their control.

Flames crackled and ran with new intensity over an area of approximately 4,000 acres and threatened to destroy another lumber camp in the region between Brule lake and Cascade.

During the night, however, the wind veered to the southwest and fanned the flames back over already burned territory.

Federal and state rangers, assisted by volunteers, were believed to have gotten the fire once more under control although only a strong soaking rain could put the fires out entirely.

Three additional but smaller fires were reported from the region north of Ely but they were quickly curbed and only a few men were left to check any possible outbreak.

Farm Board Sets Up a Policy

ONE of the American agriculture's traditional troubles has been the competition of individual farmers with each other, says the Minneapolis Journal. It is a competition that inevitably begets overproduction and underselling. The chief purpose of co-operative marketing has been to eliminate this hurtful competition.

But what gain is there for the farmer, if the competition, and hence underselling, between individuals, is merely organized into competition, and hence underselling, between groups of individuals?

That seems to be the new Federal Farm Board's view, as shown by its announcement to the Florida fruit growers. The Board makes it plain that its fixed policy will be to use its lending power to persuade group marketing organizations to co-operate with each other. The Florida Citrus Exchange and the Florida United Growers are advised to combine before asking for the loans they need to finance more ambitious marketing enterprises than they have heretofore undertaken.

The policy seems sound enough. The purpose of farm relief, of course, is to obtain for the farmer better prices for the things he produces, partly by giving him control of selling market, and partly by eliminating waste in distribution.

But if the growers of a particular product in a particular producing area organize two or more competing groups, then they have no control of their selling market. The natural tendency, instead, is toward price cutting competition. And the needless duplication of overhead and operating expenses makes for continued waste in distribution costs, further reducing the grower's net return.

Agriculture has long enjoyed exemption from the workings of anti-trust legislation, but has seldom fully availed itself of the privilege so long as there is sharp competition among groups of producers.

The Farm Board seeks to better this situation through judicious use of its lending power. For that matter, it would be folly for the Board to lend government money to rival groups intent on spending it to compete with each other.

Problem of Rural Higher Education

To Editor Dispatch:

The question of sending the high school graduate of the rural school to the city high is a problem of each year. The future of many an exceptional boy or girl is sacrificed for reasons that have seemed insurmountable.

No one can blame a parent for dreading and fearing to have their children taken from the home influence.

A feasible plan was recently brought to this office. Mrs. W. H. Flint, who has a young daughter ready for high, will rent a home and take in as many girls as she can accommodate, for a nominal price. Payment may consist in part, in supplies for the table. She must earn enough to pay rent and living expenses. With the cooperation of the parents she will be a home mother for the girls, caring for them as she does her own.

If anyone who reads this is interested, will you kindly see either Mrs. Flint, Deerwood, R. 1 or myself at the office at the court house at an early date. And then there are our boys, who will offer suggestions or plans to help them?

IRMA C. HARTLEY,
County Superintendent.

near here, to see if any or all of a dozen hoboies were buried when 18 cars of coal turned over yesterday.

The tramps had been seen riding on the cars before the wreck and authorities today were certain several of the men had been buried under nearly a thousand tons of coal.

The Skyscraper Murder

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

PHILLIP EDISON is host at a night-club party to his just-recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married. When the party breaks up, Edison goes to Sewell's home and, while he is waiting for his return, is informed Sewell has been found dead. Inspector Marx begins a police investigation. He questions Sewell's Russian valet. The elevator operator is also questioned. He did not see Sewell return. A young medical examiner, with a taste for detective work, assists Marx. Their search of the apartment reveals complete wardrobes for women in different colors. In a safe-deposit box they find a scrap of paper bearing the inscription, "Paid in Full." The following day a Major Preston, who has been a sporting associate of Sewell's, is interrogated. Then Sewell's widow visits the apartment. She intimates that Preston might know something. As the investigators are standing, after Mrs. Sewell's departure, looking at a mirror door, it opens, and Mrs. Edison appears. She relates a story which the police do not believe. After she leaves, her lawyer threatens Marx with political reprisals if the woman is molested. Then Edison visits the apartment. As he goes out a shot is heard. The Russian butler is found dead and Edison is arrested. Mary Pennell, whose clothes are found in the apartment, is questioned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

"THE newspapers wouldn't believe me," the girl said bitterly.

"Have you seen any reporters?"

"No. I wouldn't see them, after all they've printed."

"Well," said the doctor, "I think the newspapers will see you in your proper light as soon as this case has advanced a bit, and they'll make what amends they can. But here's one thing that puzzles me, Miss Pennell. Did you ever discuss Sewell with Edison?"

"Yes. But only once. He warned me against him."

"What did he say?"

"Only that I should avoid him."

"And you followed his suggestion?"

"Yes."

"And yet," said the doctor, "you are enmeshed in as filthy a scandal as it is possible for a young woman of your class. But I wouldn't take it too much to heart. I can assure you that as far as you and the young man are concerned, you're both out of the woods now."

The girl seemed to brighten visibly under the doctor's optimism.

"Incidentally," said the doctor, "who introduced you to Mr. Sewell?"

"Why—my uncle, Major Preston."

The doctor started.

"And didn't the Major warn you about him?"

"Yes, he did. You see, my uncle introduced us at a party. I could see he didn't want to. But he said something of Sewell being associated with him in some way."

The girl hesitated.

"I don't suppose I should tell you this, but you've been so very kind to me. My uncle isn't really part of the family. I mean the rest of them look down on him. I always felt it was a shame. I didn't know him, but I decided that when I came to New York I would look him up. And he was awfully glad to see me. He was quite touched. And he did his best to amuse me. Of course, we haven't much in common."

"Yes, of course," said the doctor, absent-mindedly, but he was thinking busily.

"But it was as if he felt proud of me," the girl continued. "Took me out everywhere. Introduced me everywhere. And he was always so worried about me. Afraid I'd go wild in New York."

The girl laughed. "Of course, that's absurd."

"And he warned you against Sewell?"

"Yes," said the girl, "but then he warned me about a lot of people."

"But especially against Sewell."

"Yes," said the girl.

"By the way," said the doctor carelessly, "you know your uncle's handwriting, of course."

"Yes. Why?"

"It's just for the record," the doctor explained easily, although he hated to deceive this naive creature. "But I've a photostat of a note here." He took out the reproduction of the receipt found in Sewell's safe. "Would you say that was your uncle's handwriting?"

"He added quickly: 'Of course, I'd ask the Major himself, but he happens to be out of town.'"

The girl examined the note carefully.

"Why, yes," the girl said finally. "That's my uncle's handwriting. It's so unusual, you know."

The doctor put the receipt back in his pocket. Then he rose to go.

"Now don't you worry," he begged, "and just wait a day or two for things to straighten themselves out. Because I have an idea they will."

And with this enigmatic prophecy, the doctor made his way out of the lobby. Then he disappeared into the subway—which he detested, but taxis were not for his modest means—and reappeared at the hotel, where the Major made his headquarters.

The Major was upstairs when the clerk telephoned up.

"This is Doctor Rhinewald," explained his visitor over the phone, "and I'd very much like to see you."

"I'm terribly busy," protested the Major. "Can't see any one."

"I'm the Assistant Medical Examiner, you know," the doctor added in explanation.

"Yes."

"Well, what do you want of me?"

"I think I could tell you personally, but not over the telephone."

"Listen, young feller," the Major sputtered angrily, "I haven't got time to be mixed up in that business. Now you just leave me out of it."

"I'm afraid I can't. Will you see me?"

"What for?"

"Shall I tell you over the phone?"

"All right. Come on up!"

The doctor smiled as he stepped into the elevator cage.

But his smile vanished as he greeted the Major. There was a sternness and solemnity about him which evidently puzzled and irritated the Major mightily, which was what the doctor wanted to achieve, and he chuckled inwardly.

Without bidding his guest to make himself comfortable, the Major snapped:

"Well, what is this all-fired important business you've got with me?"

The doctor paused a moment to heighten the effect of his words.

"Major, why did you deliberately lie to the police?"

For a moment the Major was taken aback. But only for a moment. Then he flared up.

"No man ever called me a liar and got away with it," he averred melodramatically.

"Yes, I know that record," said the doctor. "But I'm asking you once more, Major: Why did you deliberately lie to the police?"

Now the Major began to fence.

"I didn't lie."

"Why," continued the doctor, "did you deny that the receipt found in Sewell's safe was in your handwriting?"

The Major looked at the doctor. It was evident he was speculating on the reliability of the doctor's information. He decided the statement was well-founded.

"Oh, I didn't want to get mixed up in this case, that's why."

"You must take me for an awful fool," said the doctor. "How in the world would you be mixed up in a case simply because your partner has an ordinary business receipt from you. Just as likely the telephone company would be implicated because they'd sent Sewell a bill that week."

"Well, this had a personal angle to it," the Major hesitated slightly.

"Just how?"

"I mean," said the Major quickly, "that the telephone company wouldn't be suspected of anything, but an individual might."

"Oh, you were afraid of being suspected?"

The Major drew himself up.

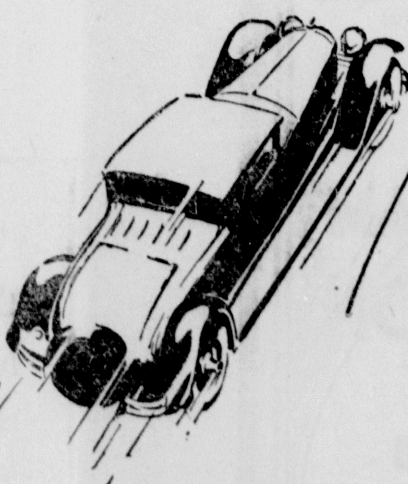

"Do you think I murdered Sewell?"

"Why not?" demanded the doctor coolly.

"See here!" the Major was pale with rage. "Do you dare come up here to my room and make a charge of murder against me?"

"But, Major, I haven't made any such charge," protested the doctor equably. "You asked me if I thought you'd murdered Sewell. And I said: 'Why not?'"

"QUALITY"—IS THE FOUNDATION OF OUR BUSINESS

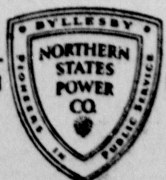

New Ease! in baking

BAKING with a GAS OVEN has become a simple matter. A cake, or a roast, or even a whole meal can be placed in the modern gas oven and left entirely alone without attention on your part. The new Gas Oven HEAT REGULATOR does your oven watching for you. It enables you to measure HEAT, as accurately as you measure the ingredients of your recipes. See that YOUR new range has one.

The NEW Low GAS RATES are making the convenience of gas cooking so cheap, that no woman can afford the drudgery of any less satisfactory fuel. You can cook better meals with GAS.

With the many other advantages of gas cooking, it will give you many extra minutes and hours of freedom from the kitchen.

29 ROBBERIES BLAMED FARMER BOY BANDIT

Avon Youth Arraigned in Stearns County Following Arrest in Minneapolis

SUSPECTED OF CRIME HERE

Sheriff Claus Theorin Left for St. Cloud This Afternoon to Question Boy on Holdups

Twenty-nine recent robberies in various parts of Minnesota were blamed today to Louis Lancello, an Avon farmer boy of 17 years, a prisoner in the Stearns county jail following his arrest Wednesday evening at the home of his sister in Minneapolis.

Among his long list of robberies as admitted by the youth is that of the Fort Ripley post office and general store, according to Sheriff Claus A. Theorin who left Brainerd this afternoon for St. Cloud to question the youth further as to other robberies in this district including the holdup of the Standard oil station, Broadway and Front and the robbery of the Home oil station, South Sixth street.

According to the written confession young Lancello committed robberies at Hawley, Milaca, Duluth, Fort Ripley, St. Cloud. He will further face the charge of attempting to rob the St. Stephens State bank several weeks ago.

Sheriff Theorin was actively interested in the arrest of the youth. On the request of Minneapolis authorities who suspected Lancello, Theorin questioned the boy's brother James Lancello, 21, now serving a year's liquor sentence in the Crow Wing county jail being transferred from Stearns county upon conviction there of liquor operations at Avon. The brother here furnished Sheriff Theorin with information as to the residence of his sister in Minneapolis and Louis' sweetheart at Duluth. Minneapolis detectives arrested the youth Wednesday evening at the address given them by Sheriff Theorin.

Sheriff Theorin will further question the boy as to possible connection with the filling station robbery at Fort Ripley several weeks ago.

The youth is accused of stealing automobiles at Hawley and Tamarack, robbing oil stations at Brainerd, Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Wendell.

The Lively Auto Co. as it is today ranking among the leading garages in this city is a splendid example of progressiveness and business advancement. It was organized by W. E. Lively 18 years ago and first conducted business in the building located at the southeast corner of Broadway and Laurel, moving to its present location in 1918. The Mills brothers, Henry C. and Stewart C. purchased the company and building in 1922 and have been conducting its operation since. Stewart Mills is vice president of the company. Lively's employ 20 Brainerd people.

RICH INDIANS ON WAY TO CASS LAKE

Group of 27 Oklahomans Visit Brainerd on Way to Fishing Grounds of North

Travel in Luxury, Are Easy Going, Demand the Best in Automobiles

Easy going, care-free, indifferent as to the public's gaze, conservative in speech, caring little where their destination will be but demanding the utmost comfort in everything. These are but a few of the characteristics of the 27 Miami Oklahoma Indians who stopped in Brainerd at noon today en route north on a summer outing.

Well provided for in the distribution of the immense wealth of the country, these Indians could not be distinguished from the average Indian on tour except for their means of travel. In that the public recognized the Indian as God and the country provided for in more fortunate circumstances. Their cars were among the highest priced made, Packards, Pierce Arrows, Lincolns, Cadillacs, with a preference for Packards and Pierce Arrows.

The Indians wore ordinary clothing and in the case of the majority of the children, these were bare-footed. One male Indian driving a Pierce Arrow wore shoes without stockings. They all wore sombreros.

During their stay in Brainerd they visited stores about the city and added to their needs for the trip to Cass Lake where they will spend the next three weeks fishing.

The heat did not bother them. They were perfectly contented and it appeared doubtful if they would object if the mercury went above the 100 mark.

They were not oil land owners, insisting that their wealth came from zinc mining. Such an industry they considered much more elevating than the oil man.

One of the first questions put by one of them was if there were large cotton porches. Their concerns appeared to be whether there would be any mosquitoes to bother them.

After fishing in Cass lake the Indians will return to this district, planning to fish in lakes in the vicinity of Whitefish lake.

Last year these same Indians motored to Colorado Springs for their outing.
